EAST LONGMEADOW, MA

Love your home! That is my motto. Any decorating or remodeling project has its design dilemmas: wall colors, furniture, flooring, window treatments, and accessorizing to name a few. When building a new home the list is endless!

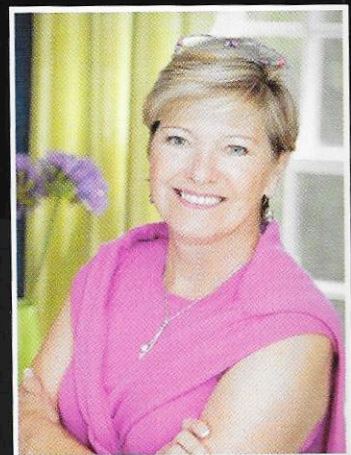

My work is customized to the client. The goal is to guide the homeowner in creating the room they have always wanted. The space has to reflect who they are and fit their lifestyle. I strongly believe that rooms are meant to be lived in and enjoyed. They are not meant to be mere showpieces.

People commonly associate hiring a decorator with high expense. But, that doesn't have to be the case. My clients are frequently amazed at what can be accomplished even with a limited budget.

The task is different when it comes to real estate home staging, which is crucial in this competitive housing market. The photos on MLS need to emphasize the saleable features of a property and make a powerful first impression to potential buyers. Professionally staged homes sell faster and for Top Dollar. The investment for a staging consultation is minimal and the rewards are great.

Let me help you with designing to live in your home or staging to sell your home. Creative, practical, and affordable advice. You will love your home!
